The form consists of a large grid of 12 columns and 6 rows. The first two columns are merged vertically. The third column is merged horizontally with the fourth and fifth columns. The sixth column is merged vertically with the seventh and eighth columns. The ninth column is merged vertically with the tenth and eleventh columns. There are several horizontal lines drawn across the grid, notably at the top, middle, and bottom. There are also vertical lines that define the columns. In the bottom row, the first column contains a single vertical line, while the other eleven columns are divided into four sections by vertical lines.

A large rectangular area of the page has been completely redacted with a light gray color. This redacted area is divided into a grid structure, consisting of approximately 6 columns and 15 rows. The first column of this grid is significantly taller than the other five columns, which are of equal height. The redacted grid occupies the central portion of the page, starting below the header and ending above the footer.
